Lendwise signposted by Imperial College Business School

We are pleased to announce that the Business School at Imperial College, a leading Russell Group University, is the latest academic institution that has signposted Lendwise on its website as a postgraduate loan provider.

The Business School at Imperial College joins an ever-growing list of institutions acknowledging Lendwise as a potential funding option for graduates and professionals seeking to finance their qualifications or postgraduate courses.

All postgraduate courses at Imperial College, including those offered by the Business School are eligible for a Lendwise Loan.

We are passionate about being able to help young professionals and graduates achieve their goals and will be working hard with many other academic institutions to help people develop or enhance their future career prospects.
