

We are delighted to announce that the prestigious University of Law is the latest academic institution that has signposted Lendwise on its website as a postgraduate loan provider. They join an ever-growing list of institutions acknowledging Lendwise as a potential funding option for graduates and professionals seeking to finance their qualifications or postgraduate courses. We are currently signposted by the below organisations and are in conversations with several more:

- University of Oxford's business school
- London Business School
- Cranfield University
- University of Law
- DevelopMe
- Wild Code School
- Created Academy

We are passionate about being able to help young professionals and graduates achieve their goals and will be working hard with many other academic institutions to help people develop or enhance their future career prospects.
